What to Do if Your Student is Involved in Campus Misconduct

1. Extend amnesty
– make sure your student knows they can call home for help without getting in trouble.
2. Get counsel and don't allow your student to use an advisor who is employed by the school.
3. Don't tell your student to "just say what happened." It never ends well and can be more problematic later.
4. Make sure your student knows not to turn over their cell phone without talking to a professional.
5. Silence is golden. Your student should not text or talk about the incident.
6. Tell your student to assume they are always being recorded.

BOTTOM LINE: things happen quickly - call an attorney as soon as possible.
